Seoul National University's Yeongeon Campus is home to the College of Medicine and the College of Dentistry. The College of Medicine boasts over 520 professors who excel in international academic activities and are dedicated to student education. Combined with the undergraduate program and graduate students, there are over 2,000 outstanding students who are committed to their studies as medical professionals and scientists responsible for life sciences. Seoul National University College of Medicine (SNUCM) Global Center (71 Ewhajang-gil, Jongno-gu, Seoul) is located near the Yeongeon Campus, within the premises of Korea National Open University. It houses various event venues and conference rooms, including the Lee Jong-wook Global Education Center. The Yeongeon Campus and the Global Center are situated in Daehak-ro, a famous youthful street in Jongno, and are also close to Dongdaemun Tourism Complex. Additionally, there are nearby attractions such as Changgyeonggung Palace, Gyeongbokgung Palace, Insadong, and Ikseondong, which are popular destinations for domestic and international travelers.
